

BK Dr. Hansa Raval

Doctor & Rajyog Teacher

Hansa Raval, M.D.

Retired as Colonel and highly decorated military physician from the U.S. Army after 26 years of service.

Hansa Raval is a physician with a M.D. in three subspecialties: clinical pathology, cytopathology and oncology.

Dr. Raval is an expert in nutrition with Master's degrees in Nutrition and Social and Preventive Medicine from the World Health Organization (W.H.O.).

At Creighton University, Nebraska, USA, Dr. Raval was an Associate Professor of the Medical School.

Dr. Raval held the following positions at one of the U.S. Army's largest medical centers:

1. Professor in the U.S. Army Medical Schools of Oncology and Pathology
2. Chief of the Departments of Pathology and Cytopathology
3. Program director of residency training program in pathology
4. Program director of fellowship programs in cytopathology and oncology
5. Consultant to the U.S. Army Surgeon General

Dr. Raval's career research includes:

1. Effect of tension, stress, anxiety and depression on the body.
2. Treatment of cancer patients with allopathic medicine and meditation.
3. Death and dying; preparing cancer patients for death
4. Use of meditation as a complementary therapy for illness.

Dr. Raval is currently a consultant for the U.S. Army Medical Center and provides voluntary services to the U.S. Army. medical center.

Dr. Raval is the Director of Brahma Kumaris in Texas, USA for the past 29 years.